Mandelia Institute of Technology and Research, Timarpur Inter – office Memorandum

Date: May 20, 2019

From: Mohan Lal Sukharia, Unit Chief, Women Development Centre

To: Firoj Abbas, Director, Research Programs

Subject: Commendation of Anjani Kumari Singh regarding her performance on Women Development Project (WDP)

The purpose of this report is to officially commend Anjani Kumari Singh for her exceptional contribution throughout her assignment to the Women Development Project (WDP).

As you know, Anjani Kumari Singh has been working on a special assignment with the WDP team for the past two years. Now that this WDP plan has been completed, I wanted to make sure that she gets some recognition for her significant and exceptional contribution to the project.

As a senior research fellow, Anjani's role in the project was pivotal for its timely and successful completion. It was Anjani who worked for long hours, numerous nights and weekends doing the field survey and data analysis with her small team of three junior researchers. The quality of Anjani's written work was also exceptional. Her regression analysis summaries were always very well written and rarely required revision.

Anjani was also outstanding as a colleague and a project team member. Her upbeat enthusiasm and keen interest in the project was infectious, and she in fact motivated the entire project team.

In closing, I would like to say that I have worked with many research fellows over the years and have never come across one as professional and productive as Anjani Kumari Singh was on the WDP. I believe that the organization as a whole should recognize her exceptional contribution to a major project.

Please let me know if you have any question or comments.

Managing Director

Ref: Negligence of duty by the staff in our Uttara Showroom.

Dear Sir,

In accordance with” your instructions, I personally visited our Uttara showroom to look into its functioning. I made some investigation and therefore submitting my report hereunder.

A number of worthy customers purchased some exclusive garments but found some problem for fitting after purchase. They tried their best to return the garments but failed because there was no attendant to take the complaint and providing the change. As a result, they made a phone call to our complaint department and filed complaints regarding this issue.

In our Uttara branch, there is only one attendant named Mr. Saker to handle the after sales service. He has been found to be irregular for the last three (3) months. As a result, our customers are getting dissatisfaction causing a decrease in our sales. In this age of competition, losing customers mean “Red Alert to the business.

I have no hesitation to recommend that Mr. Saker may be served with a notice and a really efficient and active man may be sent there for proper functioning.

I hope that a quick action will be taken based on my recommendation for the betterment of our company.

Yours faithfully,

M. A Khan Secretary

Technical Proposal

Introduction:

- ▶ A proposal is an offer by one party to provide a product or service to another party in exchange for money.
- ▶ Proposal is prepared before a specific event or incident.
- ▶ The proposal must contain:
 - Technical background
 - Results of surveys
 - Recommendations
 - Possibility of doing that Project etc.

Introduction:

- ▶ Normally the proposals are sent:
 - To establish new industrial units, labs, buildings, roads etc.
 - To organize any technical or non technical event
 - To start a new company or its branch
 - To improve the quality of engineering and technical education
 - To survey areas for buying land

Purpose:

- ▶ Some of the purposes are given below for clear understanding

1. Technical Proposal:

- When the aim of the proposal is to modify or create something that requires a good understanding of technical knowledge and skills, it is called a technical proposal.

2. Business Proposal:

- A business proposal is a document that you submit to your company or another enterprise proposing a business arrangement dealing with any aspect of business, commerce, or industry.

Purpose:

3. Research Proposal:

- When we intend to undertake a systematic research, we are required to submit a proposal outlining broadly the basis of the proposed research, its purpose, scope, significance, limitations, etc.
- Academic in nature and written with scientific objectivity, such proposals are known as research proposals.

Types:

► There are two main categories of proposals:

1. Solicited (invited):

- Whenever a proposal is drafted in response to an advertisement or demand from an authority in a company or organization or outside the organization or agency, it is termed as a solicited proposal. These are invited proposal.
- For example:
 - when the government and large corporations wish to purchase services or products for constructing dams, bridges, providing parking facility, etc., a large number of proposals bidding for the deal are received. In such a scenario, we are left competing with all other bidders that noticed the opportunity and responded. In this case, a proposal that finally gets picked up from the massive lot not only has to provide the most effective solution to the problem or make the most lucrative deal, but should also have stronger arguments in staking claims for the bid than other competitors.
- Usually solicited proposals are to be written in the format defined by the agencies that invite such offers.

► There are two main categories of proposals:

2. Unsolicited (non-invited):

- Unsolicited proposals are more demanding and require greater imagination on the part of the bidder.
- In an unsolicited proposal – a non-invited proposal, we might have an idea for a product or service that would be of benefit to a particular organization.
- For example:
 - We submit a proposal to that particular organization suggesting how we can provide some service or develop a product in exchange for funding or some other consideration. In this case, we do not know if the company is open to our proposal or not. There is every possibility that the company may not like our proposal idea. In this situation, a person may submit a proposal on his/her own initiative. Here your proposal has to convince the client that not only is the service/product potentially valuable to them, but you and your company are reliable and stable.

Technical Description

Technical Description:

- ▶ Technical description is a key part of any descriptive technical document because it defines objects and processes.
- ▶ A technical description divides a complex item or topic into more manageable components.
- ▶ It defines, describes, and illustrates the various elements contained within the whole – whether an object, process or concept.

► Steps for writing technical description:

- ➔ Naming
- ➔ Definition (assigning meaning to objects)
- ➔ Description (highlighting certain aspects of the objects)
- ➔ Illustration (description using graphic elements rather than words)

Example:

The dual option burner system can be operated either with or without a flow spoiler for optimum operation under different analytical conditions. Some versions of the dual option burner system also allow use of a removable impact bead. Consult the Spectrometer instruction manual for details on the burner system provided. A diagram of the dual-option burner system is shown in Figure below.

The premix burner chamber is molded from plastic and treated to insure proper drainage. The burner system can be operated either with or without a flow spoiler. The flow spoiler is molded of polypropylene and is held in position by three support arms which press-fit to the walls of the mixing chamber.

To facilitate removal, the end cap is held in place by four large knurled-head screws. A large O-ring, held captive by a groove in the end cap, is used to seal the end cap to the mixing chamber. For extended operation with organic solvents, a Corkprene O-ring is also available.

For routine operation it is recommended that the burner system be operated with a flow spoiler. The flow spoiler helps to remove large droplets from the nebulizer aerosol and thus minimizes chemical interferences. Removing the flow spoiler provides somewhat improved sensitivity with generally little or no degradation in precision. However, it is recommended that operation without a flow spoiler be restricted to the analysis of relatively “clean” samples, where the risk of chemical interferences is low.

► Burner Heads

There are four burner heads available for use with the dual-option burner system. They are all made of solid titanium which is corrosion resistant and free of most of the elements commonly determined by atomic absorption.

The 10-cm burner head is designed to be used with the air-acetylene flame. Because of its long burner path length, it provides the best sensitivity for air-acetylene elements.

The 5-cm nitrous oxide burner head is required for nitrous oxide-acetylene operation. On many spectrometer models, it can also be used with air-acetylene or air-hydrogen. It can be rotated 90° to provide reduced sensitivity. The three-slot burner head is designed to be used when analyzing samples with high concentrations of dissolved solids. The three-slot burner head is not compatible with all gas control systems. Refer to your spectrometer operating manual or hardware guide for information about possible use of the three-slot burner head.

A 5-cm air-acetylene burner head is available for applications in which reduced sensitivity is required. On many spectrometer models, it can be rotated 90° to provide reduced sensitivity, and it has a wide slot to prevent clogging. This burner head can be used only for air-acetylene operation.

► Nebulizers

To meet varying analytical requirements, several different types of adjustable nebulizers are available. Some types are constructed from inert plastic to provide maximum chemical resistance when highly acidic or corrosive solutions are being analysed. The standard nebulizer, which provides best performance with respect to minimizing chemical interferences, is recommended for general-purpose applications. A High-Sensitivity Nebulizer is available for applications that require maximum sensitivity and the lowest flame detection limits. The High-Sensitivity Nebulizer utilizes an integral ceramic impact bead to enhance atomization efficiency.

All Perkin-Elmer nebulizers can be easily disassembled for cleaning, and individual parts are available if replacement is necessary. The Standard Conditions section of this manual provides typical characteristic concentration values for the standard nebulizer.

Significance of letter writing:

Significance of an agenda:

- ▶ It forces the convener of the meeting to think about what needs to be accomplished.
- ▶ If it is sent ahead of time, the agenda lets participants know what to expect and allows them to prepare as required.
- ▶ It provides a blueprint for the meeting to follow.
- ▶ It helps the concerned members to think of what is left uncovered and this can help in adding those issues with the permission of the chair.

Tips for preparing an agenda:

- ▶ Send a preliminary meeting agenda and solicit any further agenda topics (be sure to include a strict deadline for additional topic suggestions.)
- ▶ Include only those additional topics which assist in achieving the meeting objective.
- ▶ Your agenda should include all the topics and allow the participants to begin preparing for the meeting.
- ▶ If you have special guests attending the meeting, find out whether they have any issues that can be combined because they are related, similar, or even the same in terms of means or ends. If so, arrange them under one agenda item. Organize the order of events according to their time and importance.

- ▶ Generally, the first item on every agenda is confirmation of the minutes of the previous meeting and the last any other matter with the permission of the chair.
- ▶ In case there are a few points to discussed, the agenda can be written on the notice itself.
- ▶ Check the agenda for errors.
- ▶ Send the agenda along with the notice or email it to all attendees. You should do this as near to the actual meeting as possible.
